Published Every Weekday Afternoon.

Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

2,716

The American Newspaper Directory is an annual directory of newspapers and their circulations. To secure a statement therein the publisher must furnish a signed detailed statement of a year's issues. Printer's Ink, a weekly journal issued by the directory publishers, in its issue of August 5, contains the following:

"In the latest issue of the American Newspaper Directory the circulations of the two daily papers of Barre, Vermont, are rated as follows:

Telegrams, 2,707.
Times, 2,724.
No one doubts the accuracy of the Times rating but it has recently been made apparent that the Telegram rating is fraudulent."

LICENSE LAW IN BARRE.

The workings of the license law in the city of Barre have recently been held up before the state as entirely unsatisfactory and "certain ugly rumors" are slyly spoken of by wise individuals. What the basis is for those conclusions and for those "ugly rumors" is entirely unknown by the officials under whom the license law is conducted in Barre. Whether those things exist in fact or whether they are merely the workings of an overwrought imagination, actuated by other motives than desire to see the enforcement of the law, is difficult to conceive. But, without desiring in any way to cover up any mistakes of the license law or its workings in this city, the Times can say that so far as the officials know, there is not "as much liquor sold illegally as legally." In fact the officials know of no illegal selling. At the last police hearing, the police officers stated that so far as their observations went they knew of no case where the law is violated in this respect, and if they did know of one instance it would be reported at once. The license commissioners say the same.

Now if there are violations of the liquor law in the city of Barre it is the duty of such citizens, as know to impart their knowledge to the officials. By keeping back such knowledge, if they have any, they are certainly aiding and abetting in the non-enforcement of the law. A grave responsibility rests on them. It is a cowardly position to take, to stand on the outskirts and to bark furiously until attention is directed one's way and then to run away and wrap one's self in an assumed mantle of righteousness. Out with the reported violations, and reveal the basis for those "ugly rumors." Until such time as that is done the insinuations will carry no weight with thinking people.

No wonder that the people of Waterbury, Conn., participated in a demonstration that virtually was as bad as the disorders during the car men's strike. After a fairly weeks' strike of the employees of the car line the relief must have been considerable. Throughout the early part of the struggle the feeling engendered was of intense hatred, and the acts perpetrated by some irresponsible persons were such as to bring upon Waterbury a stigma of disgrace few cities care to have fastened upon themselves. Those acts of violence, however, seemed to bring both parties to their senses, and the past few weeks have not been a repetition of the previous disgrace. But thirty weeks of labor difficulty is severe enough without those commitments, and the settlement was necessarily hailed with pleasure by both parties to the conflict and those indirectly interested. Take the application home, and see if the settlement would not be received with a feeling of relief, especially when the difficulty was of as much consequence as that of Waterbury.

Montpelier had a good sized fire scare last evening and the people of that city have reason to congratulate themselves that the results were no worse. The fire was in a particularly dangerous locality, and one in which there was much difficulty in getting at the flames. The Montpelier fire department, however, did a creditable piece of work in confining the flames as well as they did.

The scene in St. Peter's church, Rome, at the time the triple crown was placed on the head of Pope Pius X was most impressive, and was in every way suited to the importance of the occasion.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

A Twelfth District Girl.
There was a young girl from Westchester
Whose fellow stole up and caressed her.
"Come, kiss me!" he cried,
But she blushed and denied
And refused to begin till he pressed her.
—Columbia Jester.

Candor.

"So you have devoted yourself to literature?"
"No," answered the young man. "I write dialect stories. My line is literature."—Washington Star.

She Knew.

"What are you reading, dear poetry?"
"No, fiction. This is a letter from my husband, saying how much he misses me."—Boston Herald.

Meditations.

Broke, broke, broke,
On these newspaper tips, ah, me!
And I would that some diamonded "hookie"
Would restore me just one lost "V."—New York Herald.

How It Happened.

Wolf—What made you fall down in the stock market?
Lamb—Somebody gave me a straight tip.—Boston Transcript.

No Good.

Bertie—Did you hear my rich old uncle was dead?
Gussie—No. What did he leave you?
Bertie—Nothing.
Gussie—Well, what's the good of his being dead?

Too Much Hiawatha.

Then the band played Hiawatha.
Played it up and down the highways,
Tooted it along the byways.
At park concerts played it loudly,
Played it back to the graveyard
To the ever haunting measure.
While the people who will whistle
Joined in maddest key the chorus,
And when some dared raise their voices
In a do-dee-dum-it-in-dum.
Lacking words to grace their meaning
Or, it may be, lacking meaning:
At piano idly thumping
Tender maidens also played it
Till the atmosphere resounded
With the strains of Hiawatha.

Then, when shades of night had fallen
And the push was silent, tired out—
Then, ah, then we found with sorrow
That it all had been for nothing.
Had in one erratic measure
Struck the note that kills mosquitoes,
And throughout the long night's darkness
Still the insects buzzed about us
That same tune with variations.
So much suffering is that!

PLEASANT DAY IN CAMP.

Great Progress Was Made by National Guard Yesterday.

Burlington, Aug. 11.—The sun shone again upon the first regiment, Vermont National Guard, yesterday and great progress was made by the men. As in the past few days, the time was devoted in the morning to company drills, and in the afternoon to battalion drills, dress parade and regimental drills. Capt. C. H. Mosley of Northfield was officer of the day. Lieut. W. A. Ide of St. Johnsbury was officer of the guard and Lieut. J. B. Smith of Bradford was supernumerary.

The first battalion was at the range yesterday afternoon and every man was given practice. The mornings will be devoted to the men who are trying to make the team to represent the regiment at Seagirt, N. J., and the afternoon will be devoted to the several companies.

Up to the present time there have been but few visitors at the grounds. Upon Thursday a large crowd is expected, as Governor's day comes that day and the regiment will be reviewed by Governor McCullough. The review will be on the drill ground adjacent to Fort Ethan Allen. The men to whom service medals are due will receive them upon that day. The regiment will leave camp Friday.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

In Rutland Case Where Man was Charged With Furnishing.

Rutland, Aug. 10.—The case of State against James Kennedy, charged with soliciting orders and furnishing intoxicating liquor without a license, was tried at West Rutland this afternoon and the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The case which grew out of the large seizure of liquor in the team of Mannoy & Co., wholesalers, was tried before Justice W. W. Wilkins. The state introduced evidence to show that Kennedy had delivered cases of ale to two parties before his load was seized. The defense claimed that the orders for the ale were taken by John H. Dugan of Rutland, who holds a second class license. One of the persons to whom ale was delivered, Saturday said he had ordered it in Dugan's store and paid for it. The other said he had told Kennedy to tell Dugan to send him over a case of ale. Dugan also swore that the orders were taken through his store. He said Kennedy was in the employ of the Rutland Bottling Works and their team delivered his case orders. The jury was out half an hour and returned a verdict of not guilty.

A Fine Equine Display.

The superb, costly and rare pedigree horses and ponies with Sig. Sautelle's new big three-ring, 26-car, railroad circus, menagerie, royal Roman hippodrome and historical wild west, which will exhibit in Barre Friday, Aug. 14, both afternoon and evening, are alone worth travelling many miles to view. They comprise a genuine equine fair. Such a magnificent display of horse world wonders as Mr. Sautelle's this season was never seen before in this country. Fully 100 equine actors are introduced during the performance by the greatest trainers, presenting exhibitions to command universal praise. In one act alone 60 horses and ponies perform at the same moment in one ring, executing all manners of feats and manœuvres and all under the direction of a single man. Then there are the bounding, leaping horses, the hurdle races, wild running chariot horses, bucking bronchos, and the ring stock horses in bewildering exhibitions.
